The Duestrow Inquiry at Union
Almost Completed.

NO FURTHER BICKERING.

Drs. Norbury and Mink Close the Expert Testimony for the State.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
UNION, Mo., May 9.—So far as could be seen on the surface, there were no evidences this morning of the ill-feeling displayed in the court room last night. Mr. Booth came in looking cool and collected, as did Mr. Zachris. A few minutes later, the men did not exchange salutations. Judge Hirschel, who did not take very prominent part in the scrap proper, made some remarks immediately after opening court relative to the difficulty. He said that he would not tolerate any more of the bandying of words across the table such as the counsel have indulged in so freely during the whole trial. It was this sort of unnecessary and unwarranted conduct that led to the outbreak last night. Mr. Booth then arose and assured the court that he was very sorry for what had occurred, and assured him that nothing of the kind would come from him in future. Mr. Booth then arose and, with a smile, remarked: "You know me, your Honor." His Honor smiled, and Mr. Booth sat down. Immediately after Dr. Frank S. Norbury of Jacksonville, Ill., was put upon the stand. He gave his qualifications as an expert, chief of which is the superintendent of the Illinois State Insane Asylum. He visited Duestrow at Attorney Zachris's request, but could not get him into conversation. From observing actions in the court and from deductions drawn from the observations of all the experts who have testified in the case, the witness considered Duestrow sane. Paranoia he considered the easiest of all forms of insanity to simulate. Sleep, he said, must be considered, especially in the rapidly developing forms of paranoia. Insomnia was almost invariably manifested. It was, therefore, necessary to watch the patient at night. Dr. Norbury corroborated the other experts for the State in declaring that the instrumental tests for paranoia were absolutely essential to render a diagnosis as to sanity correct. A patient who has delusions of sight or sound must have expressions on his face to correspond with the emotions aroused by these delusions. No man with these delusions could sit for days and days without facial manifestations. There could be no vacation in these delusions. If a man were a paranoiac and believed his wife and child living, and it was persisted in a court room that they were dead, he would certainly make demonstrations to substantiate his claim. Witness did not consider Duestrow's actions consistent with his thoughts. In the witness's belief dementia never follows paranoia. He did not believe there was such a thing as an acquired paranoia. Paranoia was a misformed mind. The witness declared that he did not believe Duestrow insane because of the absence of disease, but because his history did not show it. His conduct did not show it, his facial expression did not show it, there was no systematization, and because his conduct toward the witness was not such as to indicate it. The defendant, in the doctor's estimation, thoroughly appreciated his surroundings and understood the nature of the charge against him. Dr. Norbury's testimony was in line with that of the other witnesses for the State. It was clear, simple, precise and scientific. The jury must have been better able to understand his testimony than that of the learned gentlemen who dilated upon this subject.

THE CROSS-EXAMINATION.
Mr. Booth took up the cross-examination for the defense. He attacked the credibility of the witness, and the theory that the physician's knowledge of Duestrow's clinical history was imperfect. Dr. Norbury stated that most of his information came from a Mr. Schulz, who formerly lived near Duestrow. This was corroborated by other persons. Mr. Booth held that hearsay evidence had been eliminated by the court. He insisted that the witness confine himself to facts relative to Duestrow's history brought out in the present hearing. Witness still persisted that, throwing aside all hearsay evidence, the man was sane. In answer to a hypothetical case embodying the alleged delusions of Duestrow, the witness responded that if they were true the man was insane.

WEAKENING ON PARANOIA.
Mr. Booth showed the effect of the State's testimony by declaring to the witness that

HER BODY BURNED TO A CINDER.

Frightful Death of Old Mrs. Kelly, Whose Clothing Caught Fire.

SHE LIVED SEVEN HOURS.

The Accident Happened While She Was Trying to Start a Fire in the Kitchen Stove.

The body of Mrs. Mary Kelly, aged 83, lies at the Morgue burned to a crisp. The aged woman died at the City Hospital shortly after midnight Wednesday night after seven hours of the most intense agony. She was burned from head to foot. Dr. Marks pronounced it the worst case ever brought to that institution. Just how the accident happened is not known. The victim lived with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Casey, 82 years old, in the rear of 18 South Tenth street. The latter was confined to her bed with rheumatism. The first intimation she had that anything had happened to Mrs. Kelly was when she heard her scream for help. It is supposed the old lady attempted to start the kitchen fire, and that her apron came in contact with a piece of burning paper. She was in the habit of lighting paper and holding it under the grate in the stove until the kindling ignited. When her dress first caught she evidently tried to smother the flame, as she did not call for help until she was almost completely wrapped in flames. Mrs. Casey heard the commotion and jumped out of bed. She was too feeble to be of any assistance and ran screaming to the rear door, calling upon her niece, Mrs. John Casey, to bring a quilt. When the latter arrived she found her aunt struggling on the floor in the dining-room. Her clothing was all aflame and the door opening into the kitchen had caught fire. The victim was writhing with pain and evidently had not been able to move from the spot where she first fell. Mrs. Casey threw the quilt around her and endeavored to smother the fire, but it was too late. Mrs. Kelly raised her left hand, which was burning, and seized her rescuer by the hand. The sufferer frantically clung to Mrs. Casey and the latter had a narrow escape from meeting the fate of the woman whose life she tried to save.

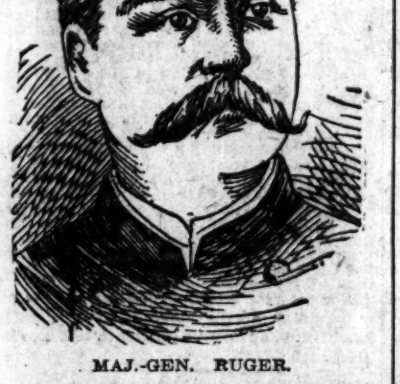

IN MARBLE HALLS.

How Anna Gould Castillane Will Realize "the Dream of Her Life."

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, May 9.—A part of Jay Gould's millions are going to be spent in reproducing the retreat of Louis XIV., the home of the infamous Mme. de Maintenon. The young daughter of the plain, unassuming American, with his simple tastes, his hatred of display, who devoted his whole life to gaining great wealth, will use the money which came to her to place in Paris a copy of that building, which is so closely associated with the most profligate, the most riotous, the most licentious court the world has ever known. The news comes from Paris that Count Castillane and his wife have bought a large site at the corner of the Avenue de Malakoff, and the young woman will now carry out the dream of her life, to exactly reproduce the grand chateau of Versailles with immense gardens, for a Paris residence.

Those who know the Countess de Castillane will wonder when this became the dream of her life. It will be interesting to watch the progress of the new grand mansion, but it would be much more interesting to watch the progress of the young woman whose father started in life with a mouse trap, presiding over a palace like the tri-umphant ruler of France. Mme. de Maintenon and Napoleon, and where Queen Victoria was a guest. What would Jay Gould say to this if he were alive?

MISSOURI BLIND SCHOOL.
Springfield and Lebanon Anxious to Secure It When Relocated.

Delegations from Lebanon and Springfield, Mo., are in St. Louis to submit propositions for the relocation of the Blind School of Missouri in those places, pursuant to the resolution adopted at the organization meeting of the commissioners, that written propositions for such relocation would be received up till Thursday, May 9. The delegations called on Secretary Frank R. O'Neill on Thursday morning, and were advised to reduce their propositions to writing, which they agreed to do, and to hand them in Thursday afternoon. The Springfield delegation is represented by Hon. J. P. Tracy, Congressmen-elect, and Mr. C. A. Waterhouse. The third member of the Springfield delegation, Mr. G. F. Penie, is not here. Mr. Waterhouse spent the greater part of the morning in preparing the terms of his proposition, but said that he would show it to Mr. Tracy before making it public. He also stated that his understanding was that Lebanon would offer the commissioners forty acres of ground.

INJURED IN A COLLISION.

Was Run Into by a Buggy on His Way Home After a Tandem Trip
With Miss Alby Plant.

Fred Scullin, a well-known society man, and son of John Scullin, the street railway magnate, met with a peculiar accident shortly after 6 o'clock this morning. While heading down Lindell avenue at full speed on his bicycle, he collided at the corner of Teresa avenue with a horse and buggy, the shaft of the latter striking him in the groin, inflicting serious internal injuries. About 4:30 o'clock this morning Officer Miller of the Fifth District, while walking south on Ware, near Lucas avenue, heard loud groans. He followed the direction of the sound until he came to the crossing of Lindell and Teresa avenues. Here he found young Scullin lying prone in the middle of the street. Several feet away lay a tandem bicycle.

Judging from his agonized groans, Scullin was suffering intense pain. His cries attracted several men from the coupe company, half a block below. A private watchman also came up, the latter ordering a carriage from the coupe company, and at the injured man's request drove him to the residence of Dr. Van Brockway, Compton and Washington avenues.

On the way to the doctor's office Scullin told the officer that he had been out riding the tandem during the earlier part of the evening with Miss Alby Plant of 364 Washington avenue. After leaving her he spent some time with young men friends in the neighborhood of Grand avenue and Olive street. He started shortly after 3 o'clock for the Mound City Co. Co., intending to turn in his wheel and take a cab for his home, 720 South Broadway. He was coming down Lindell avenue at full speed and had just reached Teresa avenue when a buggy, driven by a colored man and containing another colored man and woman, wheeled into Lindell avenue from Ware avenue.

It was too late to turn the heavy machine out of the way and a collision occurred. The shaft of the buggy struck Scullin in the right side of the groin, knocking him from his wheel and scattering his bicycle in all directions. When he fell he was unconscious. He was lying on his back, his head on the sidewalk and his arms outstretched. He could not move. He was lying on his back, his head on the sidewalk and his arms outstretched. He could not move. He was lying on his back, his head on the sidewalk and his arms outstretched. He could not move.

Scullin did not suffer much during the carriage ride, but when he reached the doctor's office he was lifted out by the call man, Officer Miller and Private Watchman Leon. The movement seemed to cause him intense pain. His screams could be heard for blocks away and aroused the whole neighborhood.

Dr. Brockway said Thursday morning his patient was doing fairly well. The extent of the injuries could not be stated, as they were internal. He was very hopeful and while admitting the serious nature of the injuries, thought that there was no grounds for alarm. Mr. Scullin's family were notified and are at his bedside. He will not be removed from Dr. Brockway's for the present.

Officer Miller, who found Mr. Scullin, says that the accident most probably occurred only a short time before he heard the groaning. "I saw Mr. Scullin in Tony Cava's saloon about 12 o'clock," said the officer. "He was with Dr. Max Smith and a crowd of young men. About 1:15 o'clock he was down at 12 o'clock on Lindell and Ware avenues. There was a young lady with him and they had a bottle of wine brought out to them. They remained seated on their tandem at the curbstone. I could find no further trace of him in the neighborhood until I discovered him at 4:30 o'clock in the morning."

"I passed the corner of Ware and Lindell avenue not more than fifty feet away from where Scullin was lying about three-quarters of an hour before the accident. I inquired up there if they had heard the noise of a collision or groaning. Nothing was heard until the time I came up and found the wounded man. His bicycle was not injured in the least. There is absolutely no trace of the buggy or its occupants."

James Smith Getting Better.
James Smith, the angry lover who was shot by Mrs. Nellie Welch at her home, 122 Upton street, last Monday night because he attempted to injure his young 15-year-old rival, Johnnie Backett, is doing nicely at the City Hospital and will leave that institution in a few days. The bullet wound in his forehead is not serious.

HOTEL BURNED.

One Guest Perishes and the Proprietress Is Dangerously Injured.

MONTROSE, Colo., May 8.—C. W. Nehrborn, agent for the Deering Machine Co. of Chicago, lost his life early today in a fire which destroyed the Hotel Arlington. His charred remains have been found in the ruins. Mrs. E. H. Smith, proprietor of the hotel, escaped by jumping from a second story window, but is in a precarious condition from cuts and burns. The house was nearly full of guests, several of whom sustained burns and wounds. Loss, $4,000.

CARLINVILLE'S BANDITS.

The Men Who Killed Engineer Holmes
in Attempt to Rob a Train.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

CARLINVILLE, Ill., May 9.—Through the active and persistent work of local officers assisted by railway officials and employees the principals in the attempt to rob the Chicago & Alton express and passengers, in which Engineer Frank Holmes was murdered in his cab on the morning of May 4, are in a fair way to receive the punishment they deserve. The three men now in jail here, Benjamin Meyers of Carlville, Ebb Bryant and Jack Frost of Burnside, Ky., the officers believe, are the ones who committed the crime. The shotgun used by the bandits near Mrs. Creamer, weakened and it was arranged he should call at a certain spot at 4 a. m. and bury the booty he found there. He found nothing, and he confessed all he knew to Dan B. Burke, on whose farm he lives. Mr. Burke notified Sheriff Davenport and the arrests followed. The morning after the killing of Holmes, Sheriff Davenport and Deputy Fahrenkrog were going from farm to farm inquiring for the murderers. At Mrs. Creamer's gate Davenport told Fahrenkrog not to drive him in, as he was about to do, because Mrs. Creamer might think he came to collect a bill. At the moment, it now appears, the murderers were in the barn, and ready to shoot the officers as they entered the gate.

Hayward Simmons, the one man who is most responsible for the men's arrest, testified at the inquest that the boys approached him and told their plans and wanted him to assist them, which he refused to do. They then threatened his life if he should ever give them away, and finally to regain their confidence he pretended acquiescence in their plans. It was to be his duty to bury the valuables they would secure from the passengers and after a time divide them equally.

The morning after the killing of Holmes, Sheriff Davenport and Deputy Fahrenkrog were going from farm to farm inquiring for the murderers. At Mrs. Creamer's gate Davenport told Fahrenkrog not to drive him in, as he was about to do, because Mrs. Creamer might think he came to collect a bill. At the moment, it now appears, the murderers were in the barn, and ready to shoot the officers as they entered the gate.

IN THE LOFTY FIELD OF ART.

Judge Klein and a Jury Browse for Two Brief Days.

EVIDENCE OF CONNOISSEURS.

Cows' Hind Legs and Other Details Expatiated Upon. With Incidental Allusions to Ruskin and Whistler.

Judge Klein and a jury have been astray from the warm paths of the law's monotonous routine for two days. They have been roaming in the lofty world of art, led by dillettantes and connoisseurs.

The case of Kate B. Dege against the American Express Co. was the occasion for the excursion. The question for the jury to determine was whether the express company was responsible for the damage done to a certain picture painted by Miss Dege and shipped by her to the World's Fair.

Several well-known masters of the brush testified as to the value of the painting, and Attorney Napton, for the plaintiff, drew them out on the subject of art, its standards and greatest exemplars. This line of examination carried the minds of the court and jury to the Salons of Paris. The jury meditated on the practical and aesthetic questions involved for several hours Tuesday and decided for the defendant.

Miss Dege sued for only $30, because the original action was begun in a Justice's Court, but she testified before Judge Klein that $200 was a low price for her picture, and she might have gained great advancement in her profession if the work had been properly delivered and given its place in the famous World's Fair Art Hall.

BETTER WAGES FOR ALL.

A Movement of Iron Workers Backed by the Manufacturers.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 8.—The Amalgamated Association of Tin, Iron and Steel Workers and the Merchant Bar Iron Manufacturers' National Association have entered into a combination to secure for the iron workers of the country better rates of wages and for the manufacturers fair competitive conditions against the mill operators of the Pittsburgh district, who have been working their employees at low wages.

At the Youngstown conference between the Amalgamated Association and the Valley Iron Manufacturers an agreement was entered into by which the bar iron Association and the Amalgamated Association to advance the present puddling scale 10 per cent, provided the non-union and under scale mills of this city be forced to pay the same prices. The strike in six mills of the city at the present time, the result of this agreement. The Pittsburgh puddlers are not only striking for present scale rates, but, if successful, will make the best bar iron workers in the country to secure an advance of 10 per cent on the $4 puddling rate. The manufacturers may be willing to grant a much higher advance if they can secure a uniformity of labor cost throughout the country. The Cleveland convention will probably propose a puddling rate of 4 1/2 per ton, and possibly 5. The finishers are to the advanced also, but not in proportion to the puddlers. Should the plan succeed, upward of 50,000 iron workers will be benefited.

President William J. Smith of the American Flint Glass Workers' Union, in discussing the industrial situation, said: "The movement to secure better wages will not be confined to any one trade, but will be made by all. The time has come, and the worker will have an inning. The restoration should be made, and it will be the best bar iron can happen in this country at the present time."

THE INCOME TAX REHEARING.

It is a matter of congratulation that the rehearing of the income tax case was held before a full bench of the Supreme Court, so that a decisive determination of the standing of the law may be reached. It would be a public blessing and would elevate the popular estimation of the Supreme Court as now constituted if the court would reverse its former decision and affirm the validity of the entire law as passed by Congress. The law is equitable and conforms to the wishes of the great body of the people.

But it would be better to have the entire law declared invalid than to have the last month's decision. To exempt from the operation of the tax incomes derived from real estate as interpreted by the court and from State, county and municipal bonds only accentuates the inequality and injustice of taxation which the income tax law was designed to remedy. It aggravates a bad situation.

If the entire law were declared unconstitutional the question before the people would be simplified. The pathway to just taxation would be reached. As this court has reversed the decisions of former Supreme Courts in the better days of the Republic so in the future better days of the Republic the people may place on the Supreme Bench Judges who will reverse the decision of this court.

PROTECTING POLITICAL CROOKS.

The Senate Committee on Jurisprudence did not give the legislative benchmen of the lobby as much protection as they need when it merely reported an amendment to the anti-lobby bill forbidding the abuse, lampooning or caricaturing of any member of the General Assembly.

Of course it is gratifying to the vanity of the "me-too" and "messenger boys" and "slaves" of the bosses and lobbyists to be pictured for the public only in the form and attitude of dignified Statesmen. But this leaves them exposed to the publication of their speeches and votes and the depiction of their actions on and off the floor of the Senate or House. It leaves them exposed to the boots of their constituents and the silent but effective rebuke of the ballot box.

The Legislature will not do all that the lobby's tools need until it eliminates from the vocabulary of the press and people such words as "hoodler," "tool," "slave," "hunchman," "cuckoo," "me-too," etc., suppresses all publication of the Legislature's proceedings, forbids protests against the sale of legislative votes and makes it a felony to cast votes against political rascals.

When the Legislature starts out to protect legislative mountebanks and crooks from deserved castigation in the press and just treatment by the people it needs the power of the Czar to make measures effective.

BEATING THE CITY.

The first paragraph of section 11 of the franchise of the Merchants' Bridge and Terminal Co. provides that at the time of filing its acceptance of the charter and on the 1st day of January every year thereafter the company shall pay into the city treasury the sum of $5,000. This sum is in addition to all other taxes that may be required by law.

There is no ambiguity about this provision. It is a clear obligation of the charter accepted by the company. Yet not one cent of the money due the city from the company under this provision has been paid into the treasury. The compensation is paltry for a franchise of such enormous value as the Bridge and Terminal franchise, but small as it is the city has been beaten out of it. It is a clear case of bunko.

Although the annual payment for the franchise could be collected by law and the city has the bond of the company for $50,000, the authorities have taken no steps to compel settlement. The political "pull" of the bridge combine has enabled the corporation to beat the city with the consent of the authorities.

DECEIVING THE PEOPLE.

One of the reasons most commonly given by those who are opposed to calling a State Convention in Missouri to define the position of Missouri Democrats on the money question is that such a convention is superfluous, because at the Kansas City convention last year the party placed itself on record squarely as favoring the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

This reason is put forth honestly as based on ignorance. When used by those who know the facts, it is intended to deceive the people. Here is the money placed adopted by the Kansas City convention May 15, 1904.

We therefore demand the free bimetallic coinage of both gold and silver, and the restoration of the bimetallic standard as it existed under our laws for over eighty years prior to the demonetization of the standard silver dollar in 1873, and should it become necessary in order to maintain the rights of both creditor and debtor shall be preserved alike, having in view the demands of the people for an adequate circulating medium. We declare that we are not in favor of gold monometallism, but that both should be coined at such ratio as may maintain the two metals in circulation.

This plank, like many others adopted during the last few years, is a straddle. It was a compromise between the two factions in the convention. It was heretofore at the time as "a defeat for Bland," and the dispatches sent to Eastern newspapers declared that "Bland was turned down." The Post-Dispatch is in a position to state authoritatively that President Cleveland was made to believe that in the adoption of this plank the Administration wing of the party in Missouri defeated "the free silver crank."

The object of those who are asking that a State Convention be called is to demonstrate that the Democrats of Missouri favor free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1. The platform adopted at Kansas City furnishes no reason why such a convention should not be held, but rather the contrary.

THE PINE STREET RAILWAY BILL.
 If the Municipal Assembly has more regard for public than private interests only two courses of action are open to it in the matter of the Pine street railway bill which has been introduced in the Council by Mr. Hagan.

The best course would be to kill the bill. It parallels several lines to the park which supply all the facilities needed, or can be made to do so if the city authorities hold them to their obligations. Pine street, when completed, will be the only clear boulevard from the park downtown. The only other good roadway west of Grand avenue is the Lindell boulevard. Some streets should be saved from the network of wires and tracks.

But if the Municipal Assembly is determined to turn over the Pine street boulevard to a railroad company there is only one way in which it can be done now without a confession of complete subservience to the boodle lobby. The franchise should be put up at auction in accordance with the terms of the law about to go into effect.

The gift of a franchise on the eve of the going into operation of a law compelling the sale of franchises would be an act of gross indecency.

THE TRISCOO ASSESSMENT.
 "The cost of the railroad properties in Missouri," said the State Board of Railroad Commissioners in 1893, "may be fairly estimated at $45,000 per mile, as an average, including terminal properties, buildings and equipment. The cost of these railroads and equipment, however, as reported and shown in statements of the railroad companies, largely exceeds this estimate."

That is to say, the railroads themselves reported the valuation of their own property at a price which the kind-hearted Board of Railroad Commissioners deemed to be in advance of or above the facts.

In this report the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad estimates its own cost at $62,664 a mile. Yet the State Board of Equalization sat in judgment at length upon the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad and decided that for taxable purposes it was only worth $12,079 a mile, or one-fifth of the estimate made by the owners themselves.

There is no disposition in this State to be unfair or unjust to railroads or any other legitimate form of industry, but it is puzzling the farmers not a little to comprehend why farm land should be valued at one-third and taxed accordingly, when the property of a railway corporation is valued at one-fifth and one-sixth. These corporations are amply able to pay their just proportion of taxes. In fact, they can pay upon one-third of their value with much less effort than can the farmers.

Why, then, assess farm land at 33 and 35 per cent of actual money valuation, while railroad property gets off with 20 per cent and pays double the amount of farm lands in earnings?

People of Missouri are beginning to be tired of this sort of injustice.

DETROIT PLAN REVIVED.

The Executive Committee having in charge the Detroit plan met yesterday afternoon and determined to make a practical application of the system at once. Gov. Colman has been succeeded in the chairmanship by Mr. Henry Fairbank, and the work will go forward.

The first and most pressing need of the committee is for money. City lots and vacant lands have been proffered in satisfaction of amounts to render the experiment feasible. Many applications for the use of this ground have been made and all that seems to be needed is an additional sum of money wherewith to plough the land and purchase seeds.

It will not be possible to put the plan into operation on a large scale, but under proper supervision it ought not to be difficult to demonstrate by experiment that the plan can be made a success in St. Louis. If this is done, operations can be undertaken next year on a comprehensive scale.

Contributions should be forwarded to Judge John H. Terry, Treasurer of the Committee, 621 Chestnut street. The Post-Dispatch will acknowledge all sums so donated.

One of the remarks most commonly heard at Jefferson City is that "Phelps owns the Senate." In voting to kill the anti-lobby bill yesterday the Senate accepted the brand. The vote was as follows:

For the Lobby—Bledsoe, Goodykoontz, Harrison, Lyman, Morton (Dems.), and Brewster, Davidson, Gray, Kennish, Klens, Landrum, O'Bannon, Powers, Seaber and Tunnell (Reps.); total, 15.

Against the Lobby—Baskett, Drum, Gash, Lancaster, McClintic, Madison, Morlessey, Orchard and Yeater (Dems.), and Ameling, Busche, Mott and Williams (Reps.); total, 15.

Said Abraham Lincoln in a letter to a friend in Illinois: "The money power of the country will endeavor to prolong its reign by working upon the prejudices of the people until all wealth is aggregated in a few hands, and the Republic is destroyed." The brave Illinoisans have remembered Lincoln's prophecy, and have resolved that neither the prejudices nor the fears of the people shall avail the greedy gold monometallists.

The assertion by a Wisconsin Judge, uttered from the bench, of his belief that the Chicago Board of Trade had caused more distress, ruined more men and wrecked more families than civil war, may sound like exaggeration, but there is food for thought in it.

A Union veteran and a Confederate veteran are to run a foot-race "for the championship of the rebellion." There are many veterans on both sides who occasionally made extraordinary time in running while the war was in progress.

Bill Phelps is in session whenever the Legislature is in session, and he does not adjourn until it adjourns. If the interests of the people were looked after as well as those of the railroads, we should have model government on all hands.

Getting medical ideas into the head of a lawyer by flinging medical works at it may be the shortest, but it is not the most thorough method of education. Perhaps the paid expert, after all, is the lawyer's only reliance.

The difference between Gov. Stone and Senator Gray is that while Phelps helped elect both of them he found himself mistaken in supposing he owned Stone after election, but was not mistaken in Gray.

The results of the Wait-Atkinson contest indicates that the only organization for victory of which the Democratic City Central Committee is capable is the organization of ballot-box stuffers.

The news that the Russian warships at Che-Poo have been painted gray and that their decks have been cleared for action is not so exciting as it might be if they had been painted red.

When thirty-one members of the Missouri House of Representatives vote regularly with the Lobby it is difficult to perceive what good has come of the slump of last year's election.

The Post-Dispatch's great circulation is a good one. It partakes of the solidity of solid St. Louis. Solid business men and virtuosos generally are not slow to appreciate this fact.

Judge Hirschel should have fined Attorney Booth yesterday, not only for throwing legal authorities around the courtroom, but for failing to knock out some of the experts.

The Government is actually taking care of the gold with which the gold sharks are cornering the yellow metal. No wonder there is a tidal wave toward silver.

Before Anna Gould takes up her plan of a grand residence in Paris, she should endeavor to persuade her brother to call off his lobby in Missouri.

Secretary Morton will recommend a free list for beef. The only protection for American consumers is in the natural law of commerce.

Even a tool of the lobby may sometimes have a sufficient sense of what is disgraceful to absent himself when a vote is being taken.

The Council by a unanimous vote confirmed Nick Karr as Superintendent of the Poor-house, "Grand Old Council."

Nicaragua will hurt Mr. Bull's feelings more by withdrawing her trade from him than by firing into his redcoats.

The farmer pays the freight, yet the railroad's property is assessed far below that of the farmer.

Cuba annexed to the Standard Oil Co. might not be much better off than Cuba bound to Spain.

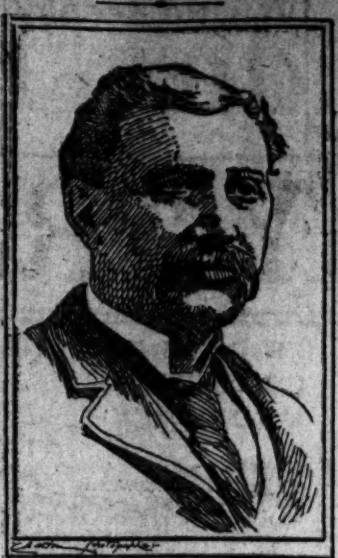

When committees of safety become unsafe, how are the rest of us to keep out of danger?

The tall goes with the hide and Nick Karr goes with the slate.

Work for the Legislature.
 From the Union Star Comet.
 The extra session called with profit gave some attention to Attorney-General Walker of this State. It might, for instance, investigate why he does not instigate proceedings against the big bridge and ferry combine at St. Louis. There are some good points for missionary work in this gigantic steal.

A Case of Innocuous Desuetude.
 From the Springfield Democrat.
 The wobbly old St. Louis Republic was fast losing its grip anyway among the Democracy of the Southwest with its Wall street financial ideas. But since Col. Jones has taken hold of the Post-Dispatch—well, there's a genuine case of innocuous desuetude in St. Louis journalism—that's all.

WELL-KNOWN ST. LOUISANS.

John B. Legg.
 John B. Legg was born in Illinois in 1839, but was educated in Missouri, and taught school for several years in this State. School teaching did not take a good hold on him, and he soon left that business for an architect. His advancement in this line was very rapid until to-day he is one of the most prominent in the West. Among the buildings designed by him are the St. Louis Exposition and the Missouri State Capitol.

Percy Ives of Michigan has just completed a portrait of President Cleveland.

There is a probability that President Faure will shortly visit England and be a guest of the Queen.

Herbert Spencer, despite his invalid condition, has completed the seventh volume of the "Principles of Society."

The German Emperor has a new nickname, "William the Sudden," a name that could not easily be improved.

Pope Leo XIII. does not wear the real tiara on solemn occasions, but a papier-mache imitation, as the tiara itself is much too heavy.

Mr. Gladstone says that he looks upon Sir Walter Scott as one of the great benefactors of his country, of Great Britain and the world at large.

Cesare Lombroso, the Italian criminologist, who believes that genius is madness, is of Venetian Jewish ancestry. His father's name was Aaron Levi.

VIGNETTES OF CITY LIFE.

An All Round Athlete.

Everybody knows the motorman has a big job to do in the summer. Action is not conducive to comfort in the dog days and a motorman in action from his hair to his heels. What has he to do? Well, he has eight levers and three bells to attend to. There is the controller that starts and stops the car, the brake, which must be constantly in hand, the reverse lever, the cone, which operates with his feet, the rear bell that he rings for the benefit of the conductor when crossing other lines, the sand lever and the cut-off. Then he must be constantly listening for the conductor's signal to stop, and when the sanders are put on they will be some complicated pattern requiring two hands to let them down.

A Tale of the Trolley.

The disadvantage of being short and fat is that it is not so easy to slip out of a trolley. The conductor was too short to bend back over the rear dash-board to reset the trolley, so he had to get off. He did so. No sooner had the trolley been adjusted to the wire than the car shot forward. The duck-legged conductor started in pursuit and a crowd of idlers on the avenue urged him on with "smoke up, old boy," "smoke up, he's a sprinter," "get onto his waddle" and other irritating incentives.

A lone woman was the only passenger and she didn't know how to stop the car, so the conductor puffed and chased and chased and puffed until he finally landed on the street. His face was red as a lobster and he was clear out of breath.

So much trouble and delay has resulted from short back conductors that hereafter only long, slender parties need apply for jobs.

Cure Worse Than the Disease.
 Mrs. Byrd and her brother, who live on Hickory street, not far from Eleventh, had an experience at church a few nights ago which they will not soon forget. On Park avenue a private family where board and clothes are provided until the 15th birthday. After that he may be able to go to work in which case the pension is placed to his credit until the age of 18, when he becomes a citizen, begin life with this incubator of humanity and charitable and responsible spirit. In all residents, decreases the chance of pauperism and places every young man on a fair and square footing with the world.

The Good Points of Mating.
 For summer there is no better floor covering than mating. It is easily kept clean and is not so liable to be soiled as the floor is covered with mating, of course rugs are a necessity, but this does not necessarily mean great expense for the tapestries, which may be bought from $2 up, many of them, as rich in coloring as any wall paper.

In taking care of mating it is not well to wash it often. When it does need brightening, wash it with cold water and two quarts of bran and four of water. Strain this, pressing all moisture out of the bran, add two quarts of cold water and two table-spoonsful of salt to the strained mixture. Wash the mating thoroughly with this and rub dry with a clean cloth.

BOOM IN STOCKS.
 Indications That the Present Advance Is Not Temporary.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
 NEW YORK, May 8.—The exhibit made yesterday of just what dimensions the growing boom in Wall street had reached, was examined with interest in every local financial center. Opinion is divided as to who may be buying, and when the high rate may be reached. Some who have had experience in just such movements look for a long bull market, such as was experienced in the panic in 1893, and up to the next break in 1894.

There is no doubt that good feeling is growing and at a rapid pace. Bits of news, which in the pessimistic atmosphere of two months ago would have been magnified into an excuse for a break, are now passed by and only their good aspects noted.

New Shirt and Cape.
 This is a different shaped shirt from any recently sketched. It has a large front, standing well out at the sides, and there are three back bows, which should be stiffened to the waist with either canvas or horsehair. A fine steel laid in the hem is an improvement. Fashionable elbow cape of either embroidered velvet or of stamped cloth over satin, is trimmed with chignon ruche, while long ends are knotted at the edge of the cape and fall over the skirt.

 The best kind of laundry apron is made of rubber cloth, of blue or brown denim. The former is to be preferred, because it keeps the dress best against a wetting. The River-Prudent Side Comb.
 The chief reason for the side comb is that it is well indispensable in affixing the hair to the head, especially at the temples in vogue now. It is interesting, by the way, to observe that this coiffure, which greatly suggests the style of hair dressing in vogue in direct opposition to the laws of Greek beauty, which demand that the summit of the human frame be small, neat and compact.

THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE.
 Will you kindly tell me what I can do for my little boy's scalp? He has a scalp eruption which seems to cause intense itching.

Shampoo his scalp twice a week with warm soap and tepid water, and apply an ointment composed of one dram of tannin and one ounce of vasoline twice a day.

I am quite frequently troubled with vertigo, caused, I believe, by indigestion and costiveness. Will you kindly advise treatment?

You should cultivate habits which favor good digestion, and take a teaspoonful of pure sulphate of soda in a gobletful of hot water an hour before breakfast every morning.

Will you please tell me what to take for nervous headache? The attacks usually come on about the middle of the month, and are relieved by the use of a cathartic.

The foregoing preparation of hydrobromate of caffeine may be used with good effect. One or two teaspoonfuls should be taken in water as required.

KILLING OF THE OUTLAWS.

Involved Into the House of Supposed Friends and Assassinated for a Reward.

GUTHRIE, O. T., May 8.—Newcomb, alias "Bitter Creek" and Pierce, alias "Dynamite Dick," leaders of the desperate Dalton-Doolin gang of outlaws who were killed last week, were betrayed by supposed friends, and were murdered while they slept under their hosts' roof. The killing, according to a story of neighbors brought in from Ingalis, was done by the Dunns, who had promised of large rewards by the deputies, who claimed later to have made the capture of the famous outlaws.

The latter's friends have sworn vengeance and the Dunn family are aiming to protect themselves.

The killing is on a par with the cowardly assassination by the Ford boys of Jesse James. The Dunns were in Ingalis on the afternoon of the killing and went home with a large amount of beer and whisky. It had been arranged, it is said, to have Niles, a sweetheart of "Dynamite Dick" and the two outlaws meet at the Dunn house that night for a big time. By midnight the outlaws were badly under the influence of liquor and, according to story, shortly afterward went to sleep. While in this condition, it is asserted the Dunns perforated them with Winchester balls and buckshot. An explanation of them bodies showed that all the bullets and buckshot had gone into the bodies in such a way as to leave no other conclusion than that the men were lying down when shot. One of the Dunn brothers was brought in here a few days after the capture, and lodged in the Federal jail, but in two days was turned loose.

The Dunns are lying very low. Their house is an arsenal, and they give evidence of expecting a raid on them any night, as Newcomb and Pierce had many friends in that country.

MUTINEERS KNOCKED OUT.

The Crew of British Ship Drumcock Makes Trouble.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 9.—While the big British ship Drumcock, now loading here with wheat, lay at a wharf, the crew mutinied and were subdued only after a hard battle. The men got drunk on shore and returning on board began an attack on Capt. Bailey and First Mate Taylor. The petty officers and two apprentices came to their aid and they laid about them with belaying pins until all the mutineers were knocked senseless. One of them afterwards died of fever and another deserted. The story wired from Tacoma that pocket-books had been made of the mutiny of Tom Black, the deserter, is untrue.

SHOVE SURRENDERS.

The Banker Will Answer the Charges Against Him.

MANITOWOC, Wis., May 9.—Banker T. C. Shove has returned from Minneapolis and surrendered. The Shove Banking Co., of which he was President failed in 1932, and he was arrested charged with receiving money when he knew the bank to be insolvent. The case did not come to trial, but a short time ago another warrant was issued.

Preparations for the Trip to San Antonio of the Delegates.

The Missouri delegation to the National Convention of the Travelers' Protective Association of America, to be held in San Antonio, Tex., June 3, 4 and 5, will leave St. Louis by special train at 8 o'clock p. m. May 31, via the Iron Mountain route to Delta, and thence to Tyler, Texas, over the Cotton Belt, and from Tyler to San Antonio by the International and Great Northern. The train will be in charge of General Passenger Agent E. W. La Beaume of the St. Louis Division.

Missouri Division will gather here and be accompanied from St. Louis by the delegates from Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana and Kentucky.

By invitation of the citizens of that city a stop will be made at Austin, Tex., for three hours. A trip will also be made to the City of Mexico after the close of the convention, and another to Monterey, Mexico, where a lion and bull fight has been arranged for.

NEW YORK POLITICS.

COLLEGE GIRLS IN BLOOMERS.

Dress Reform the Fad Among the Female Students at Ann Arbor.

The interesting girl students—600 in number—attending the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor, have among them many disciples of dress reform. They affect the bloomer style, and thus attract to the attention of the streets and exercise in the gymnasium.

The bloomer girl at Ann Arbor long since ceased to be a public curiosity.

Three years ago some of the most daring spirits among the co-eds inaugurated a reform they had fondly been maturing in secret. A quiet little mass-meeting was held and over forty co-eds pledged themselves to declare their emancipation from skirts when the weather dictated. In other words they adopted a rainy-weather costume, consisting of short skirts reaching barely below the knees and gaiters reaching from the shoes to the skirts. Over the dress was worn a water-proof cloak.

Their plans promulgated the zealous reformers waited for rain. But Providence was unkind to a change so sudden and the rain came not. The year passed with but few rainy days, and the reform failed to flourish. The rainy-day costumes passed into the closets of their owners and most of them failed to find the light since.

The movement was not wholly a failure, for each year since there have been from three to ten fair maidens in the university who have stood by the short skirt valiantly and have prayed for rain to exempt them from their despised trailing gowns. The Ann Arbor male student has grown accustomed to it and meets the airy dame in the dress of a 12-year-old without even a shudder. She attracts scarcely a glance from him, in fact, when she drops down across the aisle from him in class.

But the first rainy day of his college life badly befuddled the poor freshman. On his way across the campus he comes in sight of some short-skirted co-ed and fetches up short to stand and stare until brought to his senses by her exclamation of indignation.

The present year, too, has seen its innovations for the co-ed must be up to date. Divided skirts no longer go since bloomers became the fad. The bloomer trade is lively in Ann Arbor since the opening of the new Waterman gymnasium last November. Here 30 co-eds have lockers and they assemble there every morning for muscular improvement. It would take a woman reporter to describe the sights, for the male is vigorously excluded. A picture of one of the classes strayed out upon the campus recently and betrayed the secret. One hundred co-eds, fair and otherwise, were seen posed in the wind-dry dress in the latest approved style of bloomers.

The bloomer is not confined strictly within gymnasium walls, however, but struts at large somewhat. Two co-eds, one a "fit" and one a "hen-med," appear daily in their "new woman's" dress. One has been obliged to make a change of costume before each meal, as her boarding-house keeper refused to allow her to come to the table in "those awful things." With admirable pertinacity, however, she continues to go abroad in her chosen habit. The thing has become too trite for notice now, and in another year the campus may blossom out with bloomers of all sizes and shapes.

A Brutal Act.

From the New York Weekly.
Mr. Gotham: "So, my old friend, Col. Bloodbating, is in disgrace?"
Col. Kaintuck: "Sent to Coventry. No respectable person will speak to him."
Mr. Gotham: "My! What a shame!"
Col. Kaintuck: "Struck a gentleman with his fist instead of shooting him with a pistol, eh?"

HOW TO MAKE GARDEN.

Suggestions for Those Who Enter
Upon the Detroit Plan.

For the benefit of those who wish to become general gardeners and for those who wish to take advantage of the Detroit Plan, I write this article.

Before commencing the instructions it may be necessary to direct the reader's attention to some important matters essential to the good management of a garden. The mode of laying out the ground is a matter of taste, and may be left to the gardener himself; the former being a thing of trifling importance in the production of useful vegetables; and it matters not whether the ground be laid out in beds of four or ten feet wide, provided it be well worked and the garden kept neat and free from weeds.

Those who have not a garden already formed should, however, fix on a level spot, where the soil is deep; but as we have not always a choice, I would recommend that which is within reach, and it ought to be the object of every man, namely, to make the garden as good as possible, and that which may be allotted to him under the Detroit Plan.

The state of the wind augurs rain, as they say, "when restles in changes, now this, now that way, or hollow, comes whistling plaintively by, the rain it betokens is probably nigh."

This is certainly the most important month in the year for gardening operations. Finish as early as possible the planting of succulents for seed and see that all plants of the same genus are remote from each other, or they will adulterate all. The soil of a garden should be dug or ploughed this month, if possible, and some of the early crops sown last month will require hoeing and weeding. Great care should be taken to have good, sound seed, as this is a matter of the utmost importance and for want of which many are disappointed in their principal crops when too late to sow again. See that the garden is kept neat and free from weeds.

Much dew on the grass portends, as all say, that the day which succeeds will be a clear day; but when no dew is on the grass on the plain, Kind Heaven requites it by sending it rain.

As the warm weather progresses the garden should be kept on the alert to conquer the various kinds of insects. Burn damp litter, stubble, leaves, weeds, near fruit trees and wood-sheds, etc., to destroy the eggs of insects, and to prevent the hatching of grubs, worms, caterpillars and other insects, thin out early plantings of beets, carrots, parsnips, etc., and destroy weeds to prevent their seeding the ground. Plant and sow such kinds of seed as were omitted last month; the sowing of celery, leek, onions, parsley, parsnips, asparagus, etc., should be attended to without further delay. Transplant cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, egg plants, from the hot beds and warm borders. Plant beans and beets, cauliflower, cabbage, carrots, cress plant, cucumbers, sow endive; plant Indian corn, melons, water-melons, mustard-seed, pepper, peas, potatoes, sweet potatoes, pumpkins, sow radish seeds, squash and tomatoes.

Watering will now frequently be required for newly-planted vegetables both at the time of transplanting and occasionally afterward, in dry weather, until the roots are established in the soil. Likewise seed beds recently sown till the young plants become vigorous should be watered. Weeding must be attended to, both by hand and hoe, toward the end of the month top such of the broad-leaved plants as may be in blossom to promote the swelling of the pods, as well as their early maturity.

Those who have young families should not fail sowing some bean-plant seed, as the plant, by being striped in a glass of water, produces a nutritious food, which is an efficacious remedy for the summer complaint. It may be sown in drills and managed the same as salad or peas.

Siphonated Name.

From the Washington Post.
Everybody is laughing over the latest remark of a society woman whose habit of getting words wrong is proverbial. They were discussing Mr. Mackay-Smith before "Is his name Smith, or somebody said: 'It's all one name, or is it all one name?' " "It's all one name," said she. "He writes it with a siphon."

IN HONOR OF TASSO.

The Literary World Celebrates
His Tercentenary.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Italy has been celebrating the three hundredth anniversary of the death of Torquato Tasso, one of the greatest of Italian poets, which fell on April 25. It was honored in many parts of the world, including New York.

Prof. Carlo Leonard Speranza, of Columbia College, made an address in Italian in Hamilton Hall, to which a considerable audience listened. Rome, where the poet died, was the scene of the principal ceremonies.

The story of Tasso's life is one of the most pathetic and romantic in history, the character of his poetry adding largely to its singular interest.

He is generally accounted one of the great Italian poets, the others being Dante, Petrarch and Ariosto. Tasso has enjoyed an extraordinary popularity among the great mass of the Italian people for 300 years. Among English speaking people his work is more talked of than read, but no one has a claim to be called a scholar who is not familiar with it.

In 1572 he published his first work, "Aminta," a charming pastoral drama, which made him at once famous throughout Italy. He wrote of passion, war and chivalry in a manner that captivated the sensuous minds of the South. At the time the musical art of Italy was developing, Palestrina being the leader of it. Many of Tasso's verses were set to music, and these songs are a feature of a most interesting period of Italian history.

Tasso wrote his great work, "Jerusalem Delivered," at the age of thirty. From that time his life was a long variation of madness and trouble. Although some of the most romantic stories concerning him have been denied by modern investigators, there is no doubt that his life was singularly miserable. He would be regarded by Prof. Lombroso as a striking confirmation of his theory that genius is a form of insanity. His mental malady is believed to have been the result of the same passionate temperament which inspired his poetry.

He was born at Bergamo, which town also participated in the late celebration. His father was a nobleman of the Court of Urbino, where his education was carried on and his literary talent developed.

When Tasso wrote "Jerusalem Delivered," he submitted it to various eminent authors, chiefly ecclesiastical, for their opinion as to its propriety. They offered him a remarkable variety of advice, which is said to have begun the work of unbalancing his mind.

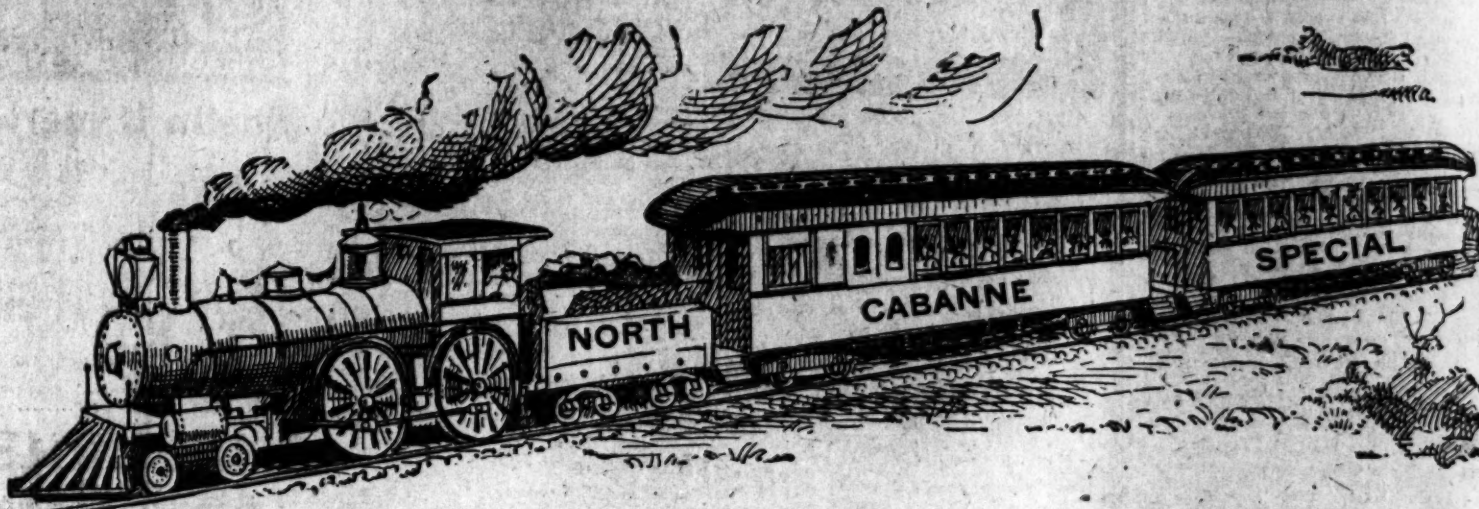

Some advised the excision of the love scenes on the ground that they tended to the corruption of youth. Others pointed out that certain passages had a theological bearing which might bring upon the poet the wrath of the church. Others again suggested that pagan heroines should be left out, as unfit to be held up to the admiration of Christian youth.

After double his health rapidly failed and his mind became unbalanced. Visions of wrathful spirits troubled him at night and in the daytime he was quarrelsome and even murderous. One occasion he threatened to kill a servant in the presence of the Duchess Este, a heinous offense. He was arrested, but the Duke pitied him on account of his gifts and mental condition and released him.

much for the Duke, who sent his gifted friend to a monastic lunatic asylum.

In 1580, while he was still in the asylum, "Jerusalem Delivered" was published unexpurgated, without his sanction. During his confinement his mind seems to have been calmer and clearer.

He was finally liberated, and Pope Clement VII. summoned him to Rome to be crowned Laureate. He went thither, but worn out with sorrow and ill health he broke down before the great honor was conferred on him.

He died in the monastery of St. Onofrio, on the Janiculum Hill, in the outskirts of Rome. He was then 50 years of age. An entry in the archives of St. Onofrio is still to be read: "Torquato Tasso, illustrious by his genius, died in our monastery of St. Onofrio, in April, 1586."

A wax cast of the poet's face is also preserved in the monastery. It is a remarkable face, suggesting passion, genius and melancholy.

Who Will Adopt the Suggestion?

From the Washington Post.

There is just one masculine privilege that I envy the men possession of, and that is the free lunch. I don't see why some enterprising soda water seller doesn't start up a free lunch for women. I don't pretend to understand these things, but if it pays a saloon-keeper to give away soup and olives and cold slaw and bread and hash and cold meat and goodness knows what else with a -cent glass of beer, surely it ought to pay a druggist to serve sandwiches or salad with every glass of soda water. And think how it would delight the bargain-loving soul of woman! I quite wonder nobody has tried it before this.

Why He Was Lovely.

From the Washington Post.

It isn't every man that owns a silk hat, but it is the dream of every very young man's life to possess one. A young man in our end of town went to the matinee family, with the only girl he ever really loved, and he wore a silk hat. He put it under the seat carefully, and the next person who came in gave it a kick that practically ruined it. Most young fellows won't have had a fit right there, but this one said nothing at all. He was so philosophical that the girl was charmed. As they came out of the theater they met another young man, and the three went to Murder Will Out.

From the Washington Post.

They drove up to the Ebbitt House Wednesday afternoon with the air of people who are in town only on a business trip. Her fetching gown was subdued in tone, and she was self-possessed—innately ally so. She spoke to him with quite the manner of a long married woman, and both seemed so perfectly satisfied with the way they were deceiving the world at large, till an obsequious porter, who had rushed to his room, and carefully removed the satin slipper from on top the carriage and handed it to the bride, with a bow. A dawning honeymoon can really be no more concealed than a bolt on one's nose.

BOOKS MAY CARRY MICROBES.

Precautions Taken to Prevent the Spread of Disease Through Libraries.

It is a fact that has been well demonstrated that contagious diseases may be spread by means of books which have been in the hands of the sick or convalescing. All the eruptive maladies, scarlatina and varioloid among others, as well as diphtheria, may be transmitted in this manner.

Throughout Europe, and especially in England, strenuous efforts are being made to stop this source of contagion. At Edinburgh already a regular service has been organized by which the directors of libraries are notified each day of the names and addresses of all those in the city who are ill of contagious diseases. The librarians thereupon make careful search to find if any of their books have been loaned in any of the houses specified. When such is found to be the case, the Health Department seizes the books, which are then either disinfected or destroyed, according to the nature of the illness. When a book, for example, has been loaned to a patient of ill of varioloid, it is immediately destroyed.

At Bradford, England, similar measures are also in vogue, and an effort is now being made to put them into effect at London. This, however, owing to the vast and dense population of the city, will be difficult of accomplishment.

In Paris this plan will also be followed in the near future. At present, the authorities of that city are endeavoring to find a satisfactory disinfectant. Experiments are being made with the vapor of formaldehyde, which is produced by incomplete combustion of methylic alcohol in contact with the air and incandescent platinum. This vapor, in addition to its antiseptic properties, is easily employed, and is absolutely harmless to cloth and furniture. It is just such little things as this that wreck the friendship of a lifetime.

MEDICAL.

"THE TRIUMPH OF LOVE"

"IS HAPPY, FRUITFUL MARRIAGE."

Every Man Who Would Know the Grand Truths of the Plain Facts; the New Discoveries of Medical Science as Applied to Married Life; Who Would Atone for Past Errors and Avoid Future Pitfalls, Should Secure the Wonderful Little Book, Called "Complete Manhood, and how to Attain It."

"Here at last is information from a high medical source that must work wonders with this generation of men."

The book fully describes a method by which to attain full vigor and manly power.

A method by which to end all unnatural drains on the system.

To cure nervousness, lack of self-control, despondency, etc.

To exchange a sad and worn nature for one of brightness, buoyancy and power.

To cure forever effects of excesses, overwork, worry, etc.

To give full strength, development and tone to every portion and organ of the body.

Age no barrier. Failure impossible, 2,000 references.

The book is purely medical and scientific, useless to curiosity seekers, invaluable to men only who need it.

A despairing man, who had applied to us, soon after wrote:

"Well, I tell you that first day is one I'll never forget. I just bubbled with joy. I wanted to hug everybody and tell them my old self had died yesterday, and my new self was born to-day. Why didn't you tell me when I first wrote that I would do this way."

And another thus:

"If you dumped a cartload of gold at my feet it would not bring such gladness into my life as your method has done."

Write to the EMM MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N. Y., and ask for the little book called "COMPLETE MANHOOD." Refer to this paper and the Company promises to send the book, to sealed envelopes, genuine any market, and entirely free, until it is well introduced.

BOGARD AS AN EVANGELIST.

Milo Has His Own Ideas About the Bible and Religion.

Milo T. Bogard, who has gained much notoriety in this city, more especially in connection with the failures of the Western Union Building Associations and the subsequent sorrow of some 3,000 shareholders, and who in many other ways brought himself before the public, is again to step before the curtain.

He has returned from Mississippi, where he has been rusticated, and stated to a Post-Dispatch reporter that his business here was to have a Protestant Church license him as an evangelist.

"Yes, I think that this time I am on the right road," said he. "I have repented all my sins and have been converted. We all have sins and I will preach to the people and advise them of the best road to reach heaven."

"I am a second Sam Jones. In fact, I think I can out-talk Sam. Of course, everybody can talk, but what I intend doing is to mount a box and say something that will startle the audience."

"This preaching business is a good one. All you've got to do is take a certain amount of magnetic power to speak successfully. Then, it takes a deal of hustling, and I am a worker. I never liked to go into a business where it did not require hard work. That's the reason. Then, to make a hit as a preacher you want original topics to talk about. People don't want to hear the same old chestnut about being a drunkard for fifteen years, then converted, etc. My aim was to be original. I've had enough experience to kill two or three ordinary men."

"But you won't catch me boarding a platform or a barrel with a full-dress suit on. No, sir. I'll just wear an ordinary hand-down suit. When you look up that way persons expect too much of you. They judge by the clothes and not by the man. Then, about preaching, I won't get up and read the Bible. I have my own notions about the future world. There's a place there for everybody. The place is all full of big mansions, and the laboring man has a mansion, the clerk has, the millionaire has another, and so on, but it won't suit the millionaire, suit him, he will just continue to walk down the golden street until he finds a place."

"I know it. I have studied up a religion."

Mr. Bogard's former bookkeeper, a young man named Bramer, will accompany him on his tour.

The cases of the Western Union Building Association Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 are pending in both the Criminal and Circuit Courts.

Mr. Bogard is out on bond. It is likely that he will be until next August. Bramer is an important witness in the case.

TO EXAMINE JUSTICES.

Clerk Appointed by the Comptroller With That End in View.

Edmond A. Schatzman has been appointed a clerk in the Comptroller's office at $75 a month. The significance of the appointment is in the fact that his special duty will be the examination of the offices of Justices of the Peace.

From the time the Devoey law went into effect last December, not one of the Justices' offices has paid expenses. Most of them have not paid the salary account. Before that the offices were eagerly sought by venal judges, getting Justices and Constables anywhere from $500 to $10,000 a year each. Business seemed suddenly to drop when the fee system was abolished.

It has been intimated that collections were held back, or at least, little effort was made to enforce collections, so that a return to the fee system might be rendered more easy. According to the returns made Justices are no longer called on to perform their duties, or else they perform them gratuitously. Occasionally there are newspaper reports of a couple getting married by a Justice, but the returns give no reports of any fees being collected. The law fixes the fee at $2.

By ordinance it is made the duty of the Comptroller to examine at intervals the accounts of the Justices and Mr. Schatzman, who is recommended as a competent accountant, will visit each office at intervals and compare the docket with the returns made.

ONE RELIEF BILL.

A Measure Somewhat at Variance With the Facts in the Case.

A relief bill was introduced in the House of Delegates Tuesday night, the tenor of which conveys an impression at variance with the facts in the case. It is in favor of the Globe Steam Heating Company for the sum of $807.15 for extra work done and material furnished on the heating apparatus at the Insane Asylum.

The bill sets forth that the Board of Public Improvements cannot authorize payment because of a technical barrier, the intimation being that there is no dispute as to the amount of the bill.

President McMath gives a different version. He says the Globe Steam Heating Company did some work at the Insane Asylum for which it presented a bill made out at card rates, from which a large discount is always made for city work. The claim was, as he remembers, about $2,600. He offered to settle on a basis of a net profit of 25 per cent on cost price. The company refused and arbitration was proposed. The Globe Company backed out, because it did not approve Mr. McMath's selection. Then the Board of Public Improvements brought suit, its claim having swollen about $1,000 to the amount now asked in the relief bill.

The case has been pending about a year, but no hearing has been had. The city has always been ready for trial, as far as the Board is concerned, but the Commission on Claims of the Council invariably returned them with an adverse report.

Several relief bills for claims in which suits were pending were introduced in the last session. None of them passed. Some got through the House, but the Commission on Claims of the Council invariably returned them with an adverse report.

Crusade on Street Car Smoking.

Man, poor man, has more trouble ahead—that is nicotine soaked man who puffs a fragrant after breakfast weed on the back platform of down town cars. The W. C. T. U. has begun a crusade against the platform smokers and even threatens to exterminate the smoking car. President Chas.

REASONS SET FORTH by the Preamble to Delegate Lloyd's Bill.

The bill introduced by Delegate Lloyd in the House Tuesday night authorizing the construction of two public movable bath houses on the river, at a cost of $4,000 each, and providing for their maintenance, begins with a preamble setting forth that in six months of 1894 fifty men and boys were drowned in the harbor of St. Louis while bathing, not counting fifteen others who lost their lives in old ponds and abandoned quarries, and that a like ratio, according to population, had been drowned in the past thirty years. The money value of such lives, if lost through the negligence of railroad corporations and assessed by juries would aggregate $300,000, on a basis of $5,000 for men and $2,000 for boys.

The preamble further says that bathing is nature's chief preventive as well as a cure for yellow fever, cholera, etc., and yet it is made a crime by the city, which shuts off seventeen miles of river from being used by the human family for bathing purposes.

The city is morally if not legally responsible for the murder of these victims, says the preamble.

The agony and sorrow of relatives is set forth, the saving effected by not having dependent relatives of victims become a burden on the city, the loss of time and cost of searching for and burying the dead, and finally the argument is advanced that the establishing of bathing houses the death rate would be lowered, and property values enhanced through St. Louis being advertised as a healthful, desirable residence and commercial point.

Besides, all this the police now detailed to chase boys from the river could be better employed elsewhere in preserving the peace.

After this lengthy preamble the enacting clause follows.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute! Scott & Byrne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c and $1.

THE REASONS WHY

Scott's Emulsion of Cod-Liver Oil and Hypophosphites is so useful in all wasting diseases, such as Consumption, Anemia, Scrofula, Rheumatism, Bronchitis, and Marasmus and Rickets in children, is because it furnishes to the depleted blood the fattening and enriching properties of the oil, and to the bones and nervous system the phosphorescent and vitalizing properties of the Hypophosphites, which together nourish the body, arrest the progress of the disease, and commence a process of repair that finally means restored health and vigor.

The bill introduced by Delegate Lloyd in the House Tuesday night authorizing the construction of two public movable bath houses on the river, at a cost of $4,000 each, and providing for their maintenance, begins with a preamble setting forth that in six months of 1894 fifty men and boys were drowned in the harbor of St. Louis while bathing, not counting fifteen others who lost their lives in old ponds and abandoned quarries, and that a like ratio, according to population, had been drowned in the past thirty years. The money value of such lives, if lost through the negligence of railroad corporations and assessed by juries would aggregate $300,000, on a basis of $5,000 for men and $2,000 for boys.

The preamble further says that bathing is nature's chief preventive as well as a cure for yellow fever, cholera, etc., and yet it is made a crime by the city, which shuts off seventeen miles of river from being used by the human family for bathing purposes.

The city is morally if not legally responsible for the murder of these victims, says the preamble.

The agony and sorrow of relatives is set forth, the saving effected by not having dependent relatives of victims become a burden on the city, the loss of time and cost of searching for and burying the dead, and finally the argument is advanced that the establishing of bathing houses the death rate would be lowered, and property values enhanced through St. Louis being advertised as a healthful, desirable residence and commercial point.

Besides, all this the police now detailed to chase boys from the river could be better employed elsewhere in preserving the peace.

After this lengthy preamble the enacting clause follows.

Don't be persuaded to accept a substitute! Scott & Byrne, N. Y. All Druggists. 50c and $1.

Women Fight With Razors.

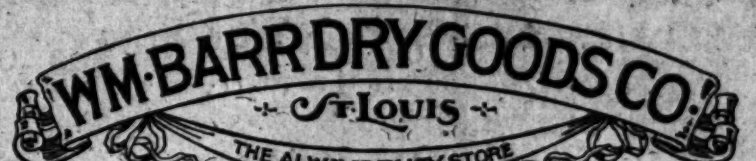

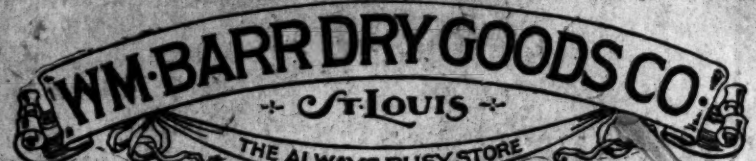

CHICAGO, Ill., May 8.—Two colored women fought a duel with razors this morning. Ella Goodall, was cut fourteen times by Frankie Lee. The former was taken to the hospital and will die. The other woman is fearfully wounded, but may recover. They quarreled about a man.

CAMPOS IN POOR HEALTH.

A Fear Expressed That He Will Not Leave Cuba Alive.

NEW YORK, May 9.--A special to the World from Havana says: "Gen. Campos sailed from Cienfuegos on the 2d for Manzanillo and Santiago. Well-informed people maintain that he will soon have to return. He is said to be in very poor health, his strength and energy falling fast. The old wound from a dynamite bomb, thrown in Barcelona, never quite healed and is giving him a good deal of trouble now. Some persons assert that he has told friends he fears he never will leave Cuba alive."

MADE HIMSELF A PRISONER.

Expert Marsh and Treasurer Dow Shut Up in a Vault.

MADISON, Wis., May 9.--Expert Marsh, who is repairing the time lock on the State Treasury vault, took Assistant Treasurer Charles W. Dow into the vault with him to show him something about the lock. After the door had been closed the lock refused to work, and the men were imprisoned for an hour. Marsh secured their release by removing the lock entirely, and when they emerged both were in an exhausted condition, with perspiration streaming from every pore.

NEW SIMMONS BUILDING

Will Be One of the Finest Hardware Stores in the Country.

The Simmons Hardware Co.'s new building on the southeast corner of Ninth and Spruce streets is rapidly nearing completion, and will be ready for occupancy in October. It is a massive pressed brick and stone structure, and will tower above the buildings at present composing the Cupples block, at a cost of almost $600,000. When completed it will far surpass any business block of its kind in the city. It is being erected on a strictly modern plan and specially arranged to suit the future occupants. By means of an iron bridge the new structure will be connected with the warehouse of the Simmons Hardware Company, located at the rear of the new building, fronting on Poplar street. It will have a frontage of 150 feet on Spruce street and will be eight and a half stories in height. The first and second floors will be used as offices and salesrooms. Heavy arched windows will give the structure a massive appearance. The cornice work statement of profits and losses in connection with these 3,000 refrigerator cars, no one need weep with sympathy.

This brought forth a telegraphed complaint from Mr. Armour directed to Secretary Morton, wherein he called attention to the acrid utterances of Dr. Salmon and asked Secretary Morton to counsel his subordinates against making statements which had no foundation but prejudice. He offered his books and statements to Secretary Morton's inspection to show how glibly he was of interference in unfair fashion with the present price of beef.

BEEF ON THE FREE LIST.

That Is What Secretary Morton Will Probably Recommend.

Special to The Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.--In an interview on May 6, Dr. Salmon said Phil D. Armour's statement that he lost on cattle which he had slaughtered was unfair and misleading. Dr. Salmon spoke of 3,000 refrigerated cars owned by the Armour Company, wherein it transported its dressed beef, and declared that until Mr. Armour made a Secretary Morton has wired Mr. Armour in reply that his books might better be shown to those newspapers in which Mr. Armour recently explained his views. They would readily reach the public that way. Further, Secretary Morton informs Mr. Armour that not the slightest prejudice exists against him or his business in the breast of any official of the Agricultural Department. Secretary Morton desires Mr. Armour to clearly understand that what he objected to in this business of beef was the spectacle of a middle man pillaging both ways, breaking down prices when he purchased cattle and adding up prices on dressed beef which he sold.

It is about settled that Secretary Morton will recommend a free list for beef as a remedy against the rings, and it is expected that the President's December message to Congress will carry a suggestion to that effect.

WAR BALLOON LOST.

The Cable Is Severed and It Sails Away From Fort Logan.

DENVER, Colo., May 9.--Since the loss of the famous war balloon, "Gen. Meyer," which was ripped open and torn to pieces during an inflation, Sergt. Baldwin, the aeronaut, has built another airship. As it was being tested yesterday afternoon at the hands of a gale of wind from the mountains drove the balloon to the ground, and while it was rebounding the signal Corps stationed at the wagon could not wind it up without endangering the aeronaut's life. The cable caught in the gable of the officers' quarters and was severed. The balloon sailed away and was lost. Sergt. Baldwin saved himself by jumping, but was badly bruised.

MAY BE AN EMBEZZLER.

Book-keeper Smith Who Mysteriously Disappeared From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 9.--The mystery of the disappearance of Charles R. Smith, book-keeper for McLaughlin & Co., the grain brokers, who engineered the late Senator Fair's $100,000 deal, is clearing up and the firm asserts that they believe the young book-keeper is an embezzler. The brokers now admit that Smith may be a defaulter to the extent of many thousands of dollars. They admit also that up to the present time they have been unable to ascertain to a certainty whether any amount of money, great or small, has been stolen from them by Smith.

These apparently contradictory statements are explained by the fact that leaving the office of his employers, Smith destroyed the books.

GAVE UP HER LIFE.

Carrie Besselman Dies a Martyr to Her Own Goodness.

The death was reported from Quarantine Thursday morning of Mrs. Carrie Besselman, wife of Henry Besselman, 4201 North Twentieth street. The case is a particularly sad one.

Mrs. Besselman, who was 24 years old, and who had been married only two years, fell a martyr to her own goodness. She lived with her husband at 4201 North Twentieth street. April 8 Adolph Duff, who lives at 4201, was taken ill, and a few days afterwards his wife and one of his children were stricken. Although the disease was not at first diagnosed as smallpox, the victims had fever and eruptions and neighbors held aloof. All but Mrs. Besselman, who volunteered to nurse them, and was unremitting in her attentions. Finally the disease developed unmistakably into smallpox, and the whole Duff family was removed to Quarantine.

April 24 Mrs. Besselman was stricken and was taken to Quarantine. First she progressed favorably, but a few days ago she grew worse. As soon as she was placed on the dangerous list, her husband insisted on going down to nurse her, and he remained till the end at her side.

All the members of the Duff family recovered.

ON THE SITE OF POPE'S.

A New Combination Building to Be Erected at Once.

Adrian O. Rule, of Kilgen & Rule, is in Chicago on an important mission. He is there to close the deal for the new Pope's Theater building. The plans of the new structure are much the same as those proposed by the Colonnade Building Co. two years ago. It will occupy the entire half block bounded by Ninth street, Locust, Olive and the alley. The property has a frontage of 127½ feet on Olive and 238 feet 1 inch on Ninth street.

The building, as proposed, will contain a hotel, a theater, stores, offices, cafe and restaurant. The well-known caterer, it is understood, will lease the hotel and restaurant. Dan Creighton will take hold of the cafe and Col. John Hopkins of the theater. The new structure will be fire proof. The hotel will be run on the European plan and will contain about 100 rooms. The restaurant and office will be located on the Olive street side, on the first floor. The theater will have entrances on Olive and Ninth streets. The main entrance will be on Ninth. The theater proper will be one of the finest in the United States. It will have a seating capacity of 2,000.

It is proposed to establish the restaurant, Turkish bath-rooms and other shops in the basement. Work on the wrecking of the "old" Pope's will probably commence next week. The Central Building Co. are under contract to Col. Hopkins to finish the theater portion of the building in time for the opening of the fall season.

Mr. Rule will return from Chicago Saturday, when all of the minor details will have been decided upon.

Property at Auction.

The northwest corner of Twenty-first and Locust streets will be sold at auction at 4:30 Thursday afternoon by the Anderson-Wade Co. The lot fronts 38 feet on Locust, 155 feet on Twenty-first and 98 feet on St. Charles street, and is a splendid site for manufacturing purposes.

Residence lots in McRee place will be sold at auction next Saturday by Henry H. Hemeny, Jr. This sub-division is passed by two electric lines and lies east of Forest Park. During the past two years over $400,000 worth of improvements have been made in this place. The lots front on graded streets, 60 and 80 feet wide. The sale begins at 2 p. m. Large crowds of speculators and home-sites seekers attended the auction sale of residence property in North Cabanne place Thursday, conducted by F. E. Meacham. The last train left for the place at 2:30 p. m. A free lunch was served at noon. Lots were sold for $100 and upward, on small cash payments. The sale will be continued May 11 and 14.

Messrs. Rutledge & Kilpatrick will hold a special sale of lots at Tuxedo Park next Saturday afternoon. A special train will leave for the place in the morning and afternoon.

Thirty-two lots, located on Clemens and Von Versen avenues, just east of Belt avenue, will be sold at auction Saturday, May 18, at 2:30 p. m., by Sam T. Rathell and Fisher & Co. The property is highly improved with Thorpe structures and several. Considerable inquiry is being made for this property.

Cunliff Bros.' Big Purchase.

Cunliff Bros., builders, have purchased 2,500 feet of ground on the south side of Hartman avenue, between Clara and Goodfellow avenues, for $125, giving $80,000 worth of improved property in exchange in part payment. Edgar Miller was the grantor. The J. T. Donovan Real Estate Co. represented the purchasers. It is said the Cunliff Bros. intend improving the property with modern residences.

Old City Hall Property.

Unusual interest is being taken in the coming sale of the old City Hall property and the property adjoining it, occupied by Bohler's livery stable. Real estate agents are receiving numerous inquiries from clients. Bids will be received by the Mayor and Comptroller until June 3. With the sale of the property will be established new values for property in that vicinity. Several wholesale manufacturers have looked over the property, but as yet no bids have been made. The Anderson-Wade Co. has several clients who are making inquiries concerning the property.

Improvements on Allen Avenue.
An action has been secured by parishioners of St. Peter and Paul's Roman Catholic Church, on Seventh street and Allen avenue, on the lot on the corner opposite from the church, where it is intended to build a large hall and club house. The lot has a frontage of 30 feet on Seventh street and 125 feet on Allen avenue. A general meeting of the leading parishioners will be held next week, when the matter will be decided. The lot is the property of the Allen heirs.

Agents' Reports.

Love & Son report the sale of lot 61x135 feet on the south side of Clemens avenue, between Clara and Goodfellow, from J. S. Hicks to S. W. Woodruff for $2,500.

Levi & Epstein has sold a lot 61x135 feet on the north side of Vernon avenue, near Belt, from G. A. Moser to Levi Stern for $2,500.

N. S. Wood reports the sale of a lot 60x135 feet on the north side of Washington avenue, west of King's highway, from S. A. Taylor to S. J. Johnston for $4,500. Paul B. Davis represented Mr. Johnston.

John Masqure & Co. have sold 200 feet on the north side of Lucky street, between Fountain and Newstead avenues, $2,000 from Simmons & Howard to C. A. Dyer, who will erect a row of flats on the site.

R. Park Von Wedelstaedt has sold a lot 60x135 feet on the south side of Washington avenue, near Whitfield street, for $180 per foot, to Mrs. Nancy S. Johnson, wife of Dr. J. Johnson.

BRICKMAKERS QUIET.

Say They Will Stay Out Until Better Wages Are Paid.

The strike of the brickmakers continues and very few of the men are returning to work.

The police near the Hydraulic Press Brick Company's plant, at King's highway and New Manchester road, have nothing to do, because the several hundred men who quit there are observing the law and giving no cause for the interference of the authorities. The men say they will stay out as long as the company declines to pay them more than starvation wages.

The statements that the strikers at the Hydraulic Company's plant and elsewhere gathered west of Tower Grove Park and made clubs from limbs of trees, is denied by the men. They did not use threats or violence, or build a large tent, or force men at other yards to quit. As soon as the strikers came along to men who were at work joined the ranks without any form of coercion.

HUMORS OF THE INCOME TAX.

Friday in Effingham.

The Great Sure Cure Co. has been incorporated with a capital stock of $50,000. The main office will be in St. Louis.

Police Sergt. McGraw and others have brought suit in the City Court against the Mobile & Ohio Railroad for $1,000, which they claim the railroad owes them as a reward for capturing a train wrecker over a year ago.

ANDREW H. LUCAS DEMENTED

The Ship Inventor Now Confined in a City Hospital Cell.

Andrew H. Lucas, inventor of the Lucas ship, lies ill at the City Hospital, sick in mind and body. Incessant business worries and disappointments have wrecked his once keen mind. Dr. Marks says his patient is suffering with dementia.

The inventor is a very sick man. He stands all day in his cell, for he has had to be confined because of sudden outbreaks of violence, starting vacantly into space. His interest in things about him has completely lapsed. He sits motionless for hours.

Mr. Lucas was sent to the hospital a few days ago by Dr. Jordan. Mrs. Lucas has abandoned their home at 1228 Vandeventer avenue and is living with friends.

The failure of Andrew Lucas' mind was simultaneous with the wrecking of his ambitions and dreams. Over a decade ago he conceived the idea of a ship with a telescopic keel, that would be able to navigate ocean navigation up to inland cities by the big rivers. His particular point was to make St. Louis an inland port for the direct handling of South American traffic.

He took John F. Cahill in with him. The two worked on the project for years. In 1887, the Mississippi River and Ocean Navigation Co. was organized, with a nominal capital of $5,000.

Mr. Cahill assumed management of the company and tried to dispose of stock to raise funds for building a trial vessel. The company met with a great deal of generous encouragement from Southern business men in the way of words of praise, but financial aid was not forthcoming.

Several attempts were made to get Mr. Cahill to withdraw from the project. Finally, in September, 1893, Judge Thomas J. Fortia succeeded in inducing the appointment of Mrs. J. A. E. McClure, formerly with Mrs. Grace L. Davidson, Secretary and Treasurer.

Mrs. McClure was named in expectation that she would furnish the funds to build a trial ship. Mr. Cahill opposed the change bitterly, but Mr. Lucas, who was sick of waiting for his idea to be practically tested, was won over by Judge Fortia.

At the same time he gave up a good position with the Mercantile Bank Co., expecting to supervise the building of the ship.

Once more his dreams vanished. The matter preyed on his mind, the lack of employment aggravated the mental strain and for over six months past Mr. Lucas' friends have noticed that his mind was giving way. Then came the final blow.

In the latter part of March last Mrs. Grace L. Davidson, Secretary and Treasurer, put in a $500 claim for back salary. Judge Fortia demanded $1,000 for legal services. Other small creditors sent in their accounts and the matter was thrown together in the hands of Henry E. Mills as trustee. A deed of trust was filed at Washington. In other words, the patent was mortgaged for ten days. At the end of that time it was put up for sale and bought in by the Lucas Navigation Co., a company owned by Mrs. Grace L. Davidson and incorporated with a capital stock of $10,000.

Adolf Winkelman, Leland F. Price and Frank E. Dickie own one share apiece, and Mrs. Grace L. Davidson 988 shares. This was a complete freeze-out for Mr. Lucas and Mr. Cahill, who owned one-half the stock of the old company.

After ten years of waiting, struggling, dreaming and hoping in the face of money disappointments, the inventor found his patient taken completely out of his hands.

He has been given to spells of violence since March, and for several days previous to his removal to the hospital it is said that he had to be constantly watched.

Dr. Marks says the depression of his patient is so excessive and the shock to his nervous system so great that he can not live long.

Just Like a Man.

Mrs. Somebody, who lives in Thirteenth street, has an infant son who is just beginning to walk. Last week he fell down stairs, so his mother bought a gate to put at the top of the stairs. There is a little metal socket screwed to each side of the stairs, and the gate fits into these. It was put up one day yesterday.

Mr. Somebody's night at the lodge, and Mrs. Somebody remembered after he left the house that he had not been told of the gate. She was so exercised for fear he would fall over it when he came home that she went to the lodge and told him.

Very late, and she was very tired. And yet when he did come, and realized how much she had worried him, he said to her: "You just lift the gate out!"

Wasn't that just like a man?

A Scriptural Saying.

From the Washington Post.

I was going down town in the buggy one morning of the week, and this is the best I have heard of since I have known her.

THE DOCTOR'S COLUMN.

J. U. A.—I am a painter and have suffered a long time from "painters' colic." Please suggest a treatment.

Take two teaspoonfuls in a tumbler of water of the Natrolithic Salts half an hour before breakfast twice a week.

D. L. B.—Get a bottle of Cardine, Extract of the Heart, and take five drops twice each day morning and evening, to increase the heart's action, and thus improve the quality of the blood.

J. F. H.—For the relief of your locomotor ataxia which you mention, would recommend a remedy which has been used with remarkable success in such cases. I refer to the animal extract, Cerebrine. Procure a bottle and take five drops on the tongue three times daily.

Mrs. G. W.—The Throddine (Animal Extract) would be an excellent remedy for the chesty you mention. Take four drops upon the tongue morning and evening.

F. K. B.—For the insomnia and heart trouble which you mention, I would advise you to take Natrolithic Salts. Two teaspoonfuls in a half tumbler of water, morning and evening, for three days. As a tonic use Restorative Wine of Coca.

A. J. J.—After using three bottles of the Cerebrine, procure a bottle of Restorative Wine of Coca and give the patient a tablespoonful three or four times daily.

W. E.—I am afflicted with helplessness and depression of spirits resulting from nervous debility. Write to ask your advice as to which of the remedies it would be advisable to take. Procure a vial of Cerebrine, and take five drops three times a day on the tongue. The last dose should not be taken within four hours of bedtime.

P. S.—All letters of inquiry on medical subjects directed to the Columbia Chemical Co., Washington, D. C., will be answered free, either in these columns or by mail direct.

they sat opposite. Said the fat one in the green gown:

"Did you hear about the money Mrs. Smith's uncle left her?"

"Why, less she had more money left her?" asked the woman in the black gown, "that's a disconnected way, that's the third time since I have known her."

"Yes," assented the green gown with a sigh, "it's just the scriptural saying—'That's the third time I have known her.'"

THE KIDNAPING.

Little Ernest Lannon's Narrow Escape From a Horrible Death.

Franky, blue-eyed Ernest Lannon, a delicate tot, only 30 months old, was the victim of a frightful accident Wednesday evening. He was savagely attacked by a vicious dog, which grabbed him by the neck and almost tore his young life out.

Ernest is the youngest of Mr. and Mrs. James Lannon's five children. The family resides at 124 North Eleventh street.

About half past 8, Ernest was toddling about the southeast corner of Eleventh and Tyler streets with a little girl of the same tender age. Just as they reached the corner, only fifteen feet from the Lannon's front steps, a big brown hunting dog, owned by Robert Blenheim, of 521 Tyler street, came panting up Tyler street. As he reached the corner, with an ugly growl he pounced upon the unsuspecting children. He jumped fairly on little Ernest Lannon's shoulders and buried his fangs deep in the child's neck. The little girl fled in terror. The dog knocked the little fellow down and chewed savagely at his face and neck. A gentleman passing and neighbors attracted by the little one's agonizing screams, succeeded in beating off the vicious brute. The child, who had hastened from her home, almost distracted at the sight, picked her boy up and carried him across to Dr. Barker's office. There the physician found the child's right cheek badly lacerated and his neck punctured in five or six different places. One of the holes fully half an inch deep. Dr. Barker eased the little sufferer's pain and cauterized the wounds Thursday morning. Ernest was doing nicely. His injuries may not prove serious, unless blood poisoning sets in. The dog has not yet been shot. Chained in Blenheim's back yard he growls and barks at every passer-by. Dr. Barker thinks it best to keep him there a few days to see if he shows any symptoms of rabies. Then if the Lannon's desire him killed, he will be shot.

SHREWD SYNDICATE SCHEME.

Utilizing the Treasury in the Running of a Corner in Gold.

NEW YORK, May 9.—The story from Washington that the syndicate was casting a financial anchor to windward by gathering up bar gold in the West and holding it for possible contingencies has been verified in Wall street. The syndicate has been taking this bar gold, presumably slight advance over assay office posted rates.

This is practically creating a corner in gold, but, instead of taking the metal out to a safety deposit vault in the clumsy Russell Sage fashion, the syndicate is holding it at the Government assay office and takes out assay office checks, which call for equal amounts of gold coin. These checks are held, so that the syndicate has cleverly made the Government act as a safe deposit company, and while the bank has the gold, it does not own it any more than the coin held for the gold certificates which the bank holds on to when they wish to hoard gold. In each case the gold appears in the Treasury statement, but does not help the free gold figure, which is the one which gives the Government ability to meet its promises to pay on demand paper that is presented for redemption.

FREE SILVER SENTIMENT.

A Protest of the People Against the Nation's Financial Policy.

CARROLLTON, Miss., May 9.—In an interview on the money question Senator Jas. Goode said:

"The present exhibition of sentiment in favor of free coinage is rather a disclosure than a growth. The American people have never been satisfied with the demonetizing silver in 1873. That act was a snap judgment taken against them by a furtive and disingenuous party. The National Democratic platform of 1884, 1888 and 1892 favoring the gold and silver money constitution. Continuing he said:

"The language was plain and unequivocal. Nor was it understood to mean as afterward claimed by the gold monometallists that we should only have free coinage of silver except by international agreement. That such argument is now made a condition of the free coinage of silver is plainly a discrimination against silver.

"What has happened in the last few months is not a rapid spread of free coinage sentiment, but a general and emphatic expression of disgust at the delay in giving voice and legal force to the just and legitimate sentiment of the great mass of the American people and resentment at the attempts to stifle that voice and to fasten on the gold monometallism. I think the Republican leaders will not declare for gold monometallism, or what is the same thing, the coinage of silver, unless by international agreement. I believe the Democratic national convention will be forced by the predominant sentiment of the party to declare squarely and unequivocally for free silver coinage by the United States without the co-operation of other nations."

NEWTON COUNTY DEMOCRATS.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEOSHO, Mo., May 9.—At a mass meeting of the Democrats of Newton County, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, our people have ever progressed and prospered under the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver, when used as a primary and redemption money, and whereas, in our opinion, the money question is now, and will, and should be the leading issue in the next Presidential campaign, and

Whereas, the success of the Democratic party, and of any issue, depends largely upon thorough party organization along certain and well defined lines, and whereas, we believe that the present and past business depression and general hard times have been due and occasioned by the demonetization of silver and the unjust discrimination of silver in our coinage laws, now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Democracy of Newton County, in mass meeting assembled, that we demand the restoration of silver to the position it occupied in our coinage system before it was demonetized by the Republican party in 1873, and to set at rest all doubt as to our position on this question we demand the free and unlimited coinage of both gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the action or consent of any nation upon earth.

Resolved, That we are, and we believe that the overwhelming majority of this State are, in favor of the free and unlimited coinage of both silver and gold at a ratio of 16 to 1.

Resolved, That we believe the position of our party on this vital issue should be unequivocally declared and defined at an early date, that it should be submitted to the Democratic voters of the State and that the will of the majority should govern and the minority yield thereto.

Resolved, That we increase the action of the State Central Committee of Illinois in calling a State Convention to declare the will of the majority of our party on the silver question.

Resolved, That to give effect to these views we hereby request the Democratic State Central Committee to call a State convention at an early date for the purpose of giving public expression in fully declaring the position of the Democratic party of this State on this question, and more perfectly organizing our party in this State.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the Chairman of the State Central Committee of this State.

MORTON ANSWERED.

"Give Silver Its Old Uses and There Will Be Demand for It."

DENVER, Colo., May 9.—Mr. James A. Cherry, a well-known lawyer, has mailed the following reply to the letter addressed to him which J. Sterling Morton, Secretary of Agriculture, gave to the public yesterday:

My Dear Sir—You have my sincere thanks for your candid, lucid and courteous letter of the 1st instant.

My reasons for writing to you was to get the honest conviction of any honest monometallist. You have not helped me, Mr. Morton, as I hoped. You don't make it clear that values cannot be affected by legislation. You put silver with salt, sugar and soap and want "The action applied to all alike that not one of them could be affected by legislation." It has seemed to me that legislation could affect values locally and generally. Did the fall of silver from 1873 to 1893 cause the legislation of 1873? You ask what sent silver down in 1880 to 84 cents an ounce. Surely that fall on its value was not because of legislation that preceded it. It was the effect of it. Take the case of India again. Legislation stopped the fall of silver, taking thereby a part of the world as instantly falls lightning. In that case we cannot get the cause and effect turned around. The fall was the effect—the logical and historical effect. You suggest that it may have been the "legal recognition of existing facts." That is exactly what it was. Just as "legal recognition of existing facts" (as I understand your meaning) caused the fall of silver to be 4 cents. Again the Senate of the United States passed a bill in 1880 which provided for the free coinage of silver in this country. It was believed that the bill would pass the House and probably be signed by President Harrison and become a law. Silver jumped within a week from about 84 cents an ounce to 137 cents an ounce. That rise, remember, was not confined to this country. It made a corresponding jump in Europe. We cannot get confused over the proper relation of "cause and effect" in this instance.

Make silver into money, give it all its old uses and there will be a demand for it. And what a demand! How men would work and sweat and risk for it, and what joy and good it would bring the world. You coin it, Mr. Morton, and give it its uses and I will furnish the demand. Everything is now measured in gold and that famous yardstick of yours and Mr. Carlisle's is getting too formally long. The producer don't get good measure for his products, the debtor falls before such a measure and the laborer cannot live when his labor is measured by it. And the sick is growing and the desolation keeping up with it. The silver countries, on account of gold appreciation, are commencing to do all of their own manufacturing.

With the loss of our manufacturing support our commercial supremacy is in danger. These facts when they are understood are likely to cause a financial revolution unless it is made clear that it is not due to a mistake in our financial legislation. Send more light.

The Unit of Value.

CHICAGO, May 9.—During a recent discussion at the Iroquois Club between Washington Hesling, John F. Hopkins, Sigmund Zeisler and W. B. Forrest, the truthfulness of certain statements in regard to the unit of value in the United States from 1792 to 1873 was questioned. This argument resulted in a controversy, which, by agreement of the parties, was referred to Judge W. A. Vincent for decision.

Here is the proposition: Sigmund Zeisler stated that under statute of 1792 both gold and silver were made units of value in the United States. John F. Hopkins denied the proposition.

Judge Vincent reached this conclusion in deciding the point in controversy:

"The unit is simply the starting point in the reckoning of money. In England the unit is the pound sterling, in Germany the mark, in France the franc, while section 20 of the act of 1792 provided that the money of account of the United States shall be expressed in dollars and cents, etc."

"The language of the proposition submitted for decision is not as clear and satisfactory as might be desired, but I am of the opinion that, under the act of 1792, the unit was to be the dollar. The value of this unit was to be measured in both gold and silver, 24 1/2 grains being the quantity of gold, which were to be consolidated and assumed by the National Government, for which bonds will be issued. The above is known as the gold debt. It appears that this debt or the greater part of it, was created through a banking act in which the provinces furnished the Government gold, receiving paper money therefore, which was then at par, but it is now worth but 2 cents on the dollar. The Government expects to fund the loan at 2 per cent."

HOD-CARRIERS' STRIKE.

Cases of Assault With No Arrests by the Police.

Fifty non-union hod carriers were put to work Thursday. The bosses are more determined than ever. A number of police officers in citizens' clothes have been stationed at various points where building is going on and trouble threatened.

At 5:30 Wednesday evening two union hod carriers called on Jacob Flahar, a non-union man who resides at 227 Wyoming street. They entered his house and requested him to stop work. He refused and they beat his face into a jelly. They escaped.

Several colored strikers boarded the Grand avenue cars at Lafayette avenue and beat an unknown white hod carrier and jumped off while the car was in motion.
